173,000 dogs and cats entered Colorado shelters in 2006 ...

The Pet Overpopulation Fund, a Colorado tax checkoff, is working to save animals' lives.

What is the Pet Overpopulation Fund?

The Pet Overpopulation Fund was created by the Colorado State Legislature to curb pet overpopulation and reduce euthanasia of surplus, unwanted animals. In the five years since its inception, the Pet Overpopulation Fund has subsidized more than 27,000 spay and neuter surgeries for dogs and cats in underserved areas of Colorado.

How can I help?

You can donate to the Pet Overpopulation Fund on your Colorado tax return. Simply enter the amount you wish to contribute on line 38 of your tax form -- no amount is too small. The State of Colorado will forward the designated amount to the Pet Overpopulation Fund.

How will my donation be used?

Your donation will help fund grants to local coalitions of veterinarians, animal care and control agencies, and community groups in underserved areas of Colorado to perform spay and neuter surgeries. The Pet Overpopulation Fund also helps create and implement education programs that encourage Coloradans to have their pets spayed and neutered. All donations are used to benefit the animals; administrative services are provided at no cost to the Fund.

Are there other ways to donate?

You may contribute directly to the Fund at any time by sending a donation payable to the "Pet Overpopulation Fund" to:

Your gift is tax deductible and will save a pet's life!
